A SUNSET

NOVEMBER 25, 1885

TO VICTOR HUGO

I

It was the dawn of winter: sword in sheath,
Change, veiled and mild, came down the gradual air
With cold slow smiles that hid the doom beneath.
Five days to die in yet were autumn's, ere
The last leaf withered from his flowerless wreath.
South, east, and north, our skies were all blown bare,
But westward over glimmering holt and heath
Cloud, wind, and light had made a heaven more fair
Than ever dream or truth
Showed earth in time's keen youth
When men with angels communed unaware.
Veiled even to the ardent brow,
Rose two sheer wings of sundering cloud, that were
As a bird's poised for vehement flight,
Full-fledged with plumes of tawny fire and hoar grey light.
A SUNSET

II
As midnight black, as twilight brown, they spread,
   But feathered thick with flame that streaked and lined
Their living darkness, ominous else of dread,
   From south to northmost verge of heaven inclined Most like some giant angel's, whose bent head
   Bowed earthward, as with message for mankind
Of doom or benediction to be shed
   From passage of his presence. Far behind,
      Even while they seemed to close,
   Stoop, and take flight, arose
Above them, higher than heavenliest thought may find
      In light or night supreme
   Of vision or of dream,
Immeasurable of men's eyes or mounting mind,
   Heaven, manifest in manifold
Light of pure pallid amber, cheered with fire of gold.

III
And where the fine gold faded all the sky
   Shone green as the outer sea when April glows,
Inlaid with flakes and feathers fledged to fly
   Of cloud suspense in rapture and repose,
With large live petals, broad as love bids lie
   Full open when the sun salutes the rose,
And small rent sprays wherewith the heavens most high
   Were strewn as autumn strews the garden-close
A SUNSET

With ruinous roseleaves whirled
About their wan chill world,
Through wind-worn bowers that now no music knows,
Spoil of the dim dusk year
Whose utter night is near,
And near the flower of dawn beyond it blows;
Till east and west were fire and light,
As though the dawn to come had flushed the coming night.

IV

The highways paced of men that toil or play,
The byways known of none but lonely feet,
Were paven of purple woven of night and day
With hands that met as hands of friends might meet—
As though night’s were not lifted up to slay
And day’s had waxed not weaker. Peace more sweet
Than music, light more soft than shadow, lay
On downs and moorlands wan with day’s defeat,
That watched afar above
Life’s very rose of love
Let all its lustrous leaves fall, fade, and fleet,
And fill all heaven and earth
Full as with fires of birth
Whence time should feed his years with light and heat:
Nay, not life’s, but a flower more strong
Than life or time or death, love’s very rose of song.

v

Song visible, whence all men's eyes were lit
With love and loving wonder: song that glowed
Through cloud and change on souls that knew not it
And hearts that wist not whence their comfort flowed,
Whence fear was lightened of her fever-fit,
Whence anguish of her life-compelling load.
Yea, no man's head whereon the fire alit,
Of all that passed along that sunset road
Westward, no brow so drear,
No eye so dull of cheer,
No face so mean whereon that light abode,
But as with alien pride
Strange godhead glorified
Each feature flushed from heaven with fire that showed
The likeness of its own life wrought
By strong transfiguration as of living thought.

vi

Nor only clouds of the everlasting sky,
Nor only men that paced that sunward way
To the utter bourne of evening, passed not by Unblest or unillumined: none might say,
Of all things visible in the wide world's eye,
That all too low for all that grace it lay:
The lowliest lakelets of the moorland nigh,
The narrowest pools where shallowest wavelets play,
A SUNSET

Were filled from heaven above
With light like fire of love,
With flames and colours like a dawn in May,
As hearts that lowlier live
With light of thoughts that give Light from the depth of souls more deep than they Through song’s or story’s kindling scroll,
The splendour of the shadow that reveals the soul.

vii

For, when such light is in the world, we share,
All of us, all the rays thereof that shine:
Its presence is alive in the unseen air,
Its fire within our veins as quickening wine;
A spirit is shed on all men everywhere,
Known or not known of all men for divine.
Yea, as the sun makes heaven, that light makes fair
All souls of ours, all lesser souls than thine,
Priest, prophet, seer and sage,
Lord of a subject age
That bears thy seal upon it for a sign;
Whose name shall be thy name,
Whose light thy light of fame,
The light of love that makes thy soul a shrine;
Whose record through all years to be
Shall bear this witness written—that its womb bare thee.
VIII

O mystery, whence to one man's hand was given Power upon all things of the spirit, and might Whereby the veil of all the years was riven
   And naked stood the secret soul of night!
O marvel, hailed of eyes whence cloud is driven,
   That shows at last wrong reconciled with right
By death divine of evil and sin forgiven!
   O light of song, whose fire is perfect light!
      No speech, no voice, no thought,
      No love, avails us aught
For service of thanksgiving in his sight
   Who hath given us all for ever
Such gifts that man gave never
So many and great since first Time's wings took flight.
   Man may not praise a spirit above
Man's: life and death shall praise him: we can only love.

IX

Life, everlasting while the worlds endure,
   Death, self-abased before a power more high,
Shall, bear one witness, and their word stand sure
   That not till time be dead shall this man die.
Love, like a bird, comes loyal to his lure;
   Fame flies before him, wingless else to fly.
A child's heart toward his kind is not more pure,
   An eagle's toward the sun no lordlier eye.
A SUNSET

Awe sweet as love and proud
As fame, though hushed and bowed,
Yearns toward him silent as his face goes by:
   All crowns before his crown
Triumphantly bow down,
For pride that one more great than all draws nigh:
   All souls applaud, all hearts acclaim,
One heart benign, one soul supreme, one conquering name.
